

Ispat distributes MEV plants Increasing efficiency in productivity

MEV S.r.l. is one of the main Italian companies producing construction machinery since 1950 and, in particular, concrete batching and mixing plants from the sixties. MEV combines the modern production processes with the 'artisan care', so that the customers can expect a very long lifetime of the plants, without major repairs or maintenance. The MEV plants have been designed for reliable and heavy duty operation worldwide, in any environmental condition having capacity ranging from 30-300 m³/h. In addition to the domestic market, they are successfully working in Europe, Asia, Middle East and South America. Ispat Sales (India) Pvt Ltd are its sole distributors throughout India.

MEV S.r.l. constructs machines and industrial civil systems with particular specialisation in the construction of systems and equipment for the production of concrete, wet concrete plants and mixing plants for every requirement. The reliable plants are fully automatic computer controlled available in twin shaft, planetary and continuous models, which are ruggedly designed to face the extreme working conditions. It also deals in wide range of mixers designed with portability in mind to suit infrastructure working. MEV's batching and mixing plant are available in capacities from 18 m³ to 300 m³. MEV has successfully faced challenges in bulk handling requirements. The development of new equipment and services to meet the rapidly changing needs of our customers in the future is their primary mission. In this regard their efforts focus on increasing concrete production efficiency while reducing the costs of production and improving concrete quality.

The development of new equipment and services to meet the rapidly changing needs of their customers in the future is the primary mission of MEV. Ispat Sales (India) Pvt Ltd amassing years of invaluable experience, has strived to provide nothing but the best to the construction industry with its undivided focus on new innovation in concrete technology.
